

Water Treatment

Discover ORCA™ Consulting Services

Objectivity Through Root Cause Analysis

Through ORCA™ Consulting Services, CETCO provides consulting services, holistic solutions, development planning and in-house technical expertise and support for oil and gas operators worldwide. By objectively identifying and correcting the root cause of events, ORCA™ Consulting Services demonstrates the commitment to provide value added services for our customers.

It is important to maintain the objectivity of consulting services to the benefit of the client. ORCA™ Consulting Services reviews the client's issues, performs studies or pilots and makes recommendations on the best technologies available. Whether needing to debottleneck Brownfield operations and enable additional hydrocarbon production or mitigate project risk and provide a high degree of assurance ensuring adequacy of Greenfield designs, ORCA™ Consulting Services' expertise will enable greater oil and gas production and add value to our customer's projects.

For more information about ORCA™ Consulting Services and questions about CETCO's consulting services, contact Dr. John Walsh, CETCO's Director of Technical Water Treatment, at john.walsh@cetco.com or + 281.578.8911.

Applications

- Onsite assessment of fluids, equipment, process, chemical treating and operations
- Troubleshooting and problem solving
- Laboratory, bench top and onsite equipment pilot testing
- Water management planning
- Risk mitigation
- Best practices and lessons learned
- Simulations
- Concept development
- Front end engineering
- Environment impact and regulatory advice and management

Features & Benefits

- Early identification of emerging technology opportunities
- Internal training and expertise development
- Ability to provide holistic and whole-system solutions for customers
- Credible resources working in conjunction with CETCO's divisions to deliver expertise and field support, as needed

